Call for Proposals is Now Open

The Safer Roads International Conference is a triennial event for roadway safety professionals and transportation officials from around the globe. The conference brings together industry leaders, government officials, corporate roadway department personnel, and others in the roadway safety infrastructure industry, with a focus on improving processes and communication to work more efficiently. For the first time in the conference's history, the 2020 International Safer Roads Conference will be held in the United States. Hosted by the American Traffic Safety Services Association (ATSSA), the International Safer Roads Conference is viewed as a must-attend conference to stay current on trends and industry advancements and to access new products and technologies from around the world.

You're Invited

You are invited to contribute to the 2020 International Safer Roads Conference in Richmond, Virginia by submitting a paper, education session, or poster session proposal that reflects the best thinking in the field, informed by theory and research, and proven best practices.

We welcome proposals that:

- Address the importance of roadway safety from a strategic perspective
- Demonstrate proven measures to improve roadway safety
- Explore the role of technological innovations in the industry
- Speak to new regulations and real-time issues
- Provide a preview of upcoming industry trends

Submission Process
